DECEMBER 2017

University Update

It seems like we have been gone a lot the last couple of months. We have visited churches on Sundays, traveled to Dallas for LIU meetings, put together new presentations, preached a couple of times, and attended the ICOM conference in Peoria. We have had great weather for travel and God has allowed us to see many supporters and friends. It is a great encouragement to us to see continued interest and support for this work.

The university continues to move forward. The pavilion and kitchen are finished at the new campus with roads being completed along with the main gate. Classes have gone well this semester with finals the first week of December. God is providing what is needed each month but we still need increased support for the monthly expenses. Salaries, utilities, security and maintenance are growing as the school grows. This semester there were 287 students our largest enrollment so far.

Joey and I are looking forward to Christmas as Daniel and Harrison are coming for the holidays. This will be Harrison's first trip to Nebraska so we want to make it special. We are enjoying our other two grandchildren here in Lincoln and get to have them over pretty often.

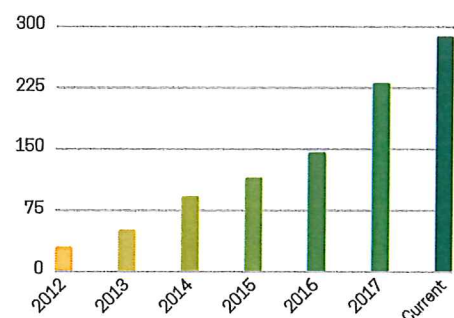

We enjoy the small groups we are in at the church and will miss them when we return to Uganda in January. I am looking forward to meeting the new students and visiting with faculty and staff. There is a leadership class that I will also help with at LIU. Please keep us in pray as we make plans and as we travel over these next few weeks. We have a lot to celebrate and be thankful for as God provides our every need.
